

Better Service

PROFESSIONAL PROPERTY MANAGEMENT

When you rent a professionally managed property you gain access to a team of on-site experts who can provide 24/7 customer service in a professional manner. With a condo rental, the person responsible for maintaining the unit – and your sole point of contact – is the owner. Condo landlords can be hard to reach and slow to respond, leaving you at the mercy of their schedule. That's an extra layer between you and getting the job done.

Peace of Mind

MAKE OUR SPACE YOUR HOME

A condo owner can decide to sell their unit at any time, leaving you inconvenienced by open houses, staging setup, a new landlord, even pressure to renegotiate or end your lease early as you don't benefit from the same protections or by-laws as you would in a purpose-built rental building.

With a condo owner, you are staying in their space. At Morguard, you are living in yours.

More For Your Money

BETTER VALUE

In addition to great amenities and services, renting an apartment can provide better value than renting a condo. Condo rental prices often include additional fees such as property taxes, mortgage costs and complicated layers of insurance.

Apartment rentals usually offer larger spaces for lower prices. Save more of your hard-earned money by choosing Morguard.
