New & Exciting Coaster Ride

a fun autumn experience.....

Sunrise Apache Alpine Coaster—Greer, AZ

Experience thrilling drops, heart-pounding turns, and breathtaking views with Arizona's newest mountain thrill ride! Owned and operated by the White Mountain Apache Tribe, the Sunrise Apache Alpine Coaster is one of only two alpine coasters in Arizona and is the only tribal coaster in the country!

What is a mountain coaster?

A mountain coaster, also known as an alpine coaster, is a type of roller coaster designed to take advantage of hills or mountain slopes. In contrast to traditional roller coasters, mountain coasters integrate with the natural landscape, twisting and turning through the mountainous terrain.

When does the Sunrise Park mountain coaster open?

The alpine coaster originally was set to open on Memorial Day weekend 2024, but due to some construction delays and heavy snowfall the opening date has been moved to the summer of 2024.

Opening Day was July 20, 2024. $19 per ride.

Now families can experience the Sunrise Apache Alpine Coaster, with over 3,000 feet of track and breathtaking mountain views! This high-tech coaster is engineered by Wiegand, the world-wide leader in mountain coasters. It features individual carts where riders control their own speed with a hand brake as they fly down the mountain. Young children can also ride with a parent. Each cart has a top speed of 25mph and the carts automatically maintain a safe distance between each other. The coaster will be available to ride in both the summer and winter seasons.

How the First Thanksgiving College Football Game Kicked Off a Holiday Tradition

November 30, 1876: First Thanksgiving Football Game

In 1873, as college campuses in the Northeast incubated the sport, students from Princeton, Yale, Harvard and Columbia formed the Intercollegiate Football Association. The league standardized rules and set schedules that included an annual Thanksgiving game in New York between the teams with the best records from the previous season.

The very first Thanksgiving football game was played between Princeton and Yale in 1876. American football was in its infancy, but the sport and the Thanksgiving tradition quickly caught on.

After another Yale victory in 1892, Princeton snapped its rival's epic winning streak the following year with a 6-0 victory before more than 50,000 fans. By 1893, 40,000 spectators showed up to watch the Princeton-Yale Thanksgiving game in New York's Manhattan Field.

That 1893 game in New York would be the last between the rivals on Thanksgiving, although they clashed in the city the next three seasons. In 1897, the annual game shifted to their campuses.

Thanksgiving football, however, was here to stay as family and friends communed around fields in addition to dinner tables. By the mid-1890s, fans could gorge on a football feast as colleges, high schools and club teams played approximately 5,000 games on Thanksgiving.

"In these times Thanksgiving Day is no longer a solemn festival to God for mercies given," reported the New York Herald in 1893. "It is a holiday granted by the State and the nation to see a game of football."
